THIEVES STAGE SERIES OF ROBBERIES

ROMANCE BRINGS LEGAL BATTLE

Swiss Butler's Love Affair With Heiress Revealed

DEPORTATION ATTEMPTED

Declared Insane, Locked Up,
Court Fight Starts

NEW YORK—(United Press)—Federal courts have halted deportation of August Probst, a Swiss, formerly a butler at the Rolling Rock club at Ligonier, Pa., and his story of how he was being "railroaded" from the country to break up his romance with a Washington heiress, prominent in social and official circles, was heard here today.

A writ of habeas corpus, signed by Federal Judge Mack, caused removal of Probst from Ellis Island. His attorneys blocked his deportation at the last minute.

Probst, who alleges he was driven from the Rolling Rock club at the point of a pistol by officials of the club, after his romance with the wealthy young heiress had continued for several weeks, was declared insane February 28. His attorneys allege he is perfectly sane and of high intelligence, having held responsible positions.

The heiress is said to have refused all appeals to give up her butler suitor. Probst charges he was forced into a stable at the club, locked up and later kept prisoner in a flat for three days. He says he was constantly threatened with death if he communicated with anyone at the Rolling Rock club.

WARRANT SERVED

Plans to send him to Europe failed, the butler said, after the Swiss consul had refused to vouch for his passport. Then he was released, he said, and sent to Trenton, N. J. There he said his rooms were entered by an "inspector" with a telegraphic warrant signed by the assistant secretary of labor at Washington.

The butler declared that two physicians then declared him insane and that his deportation was arranged. Probst said he was engaged to the heiress. He described how the course of true love changed their relations from that of employer and guest to affection and love.

A Pittsburgh society girl, chum of the one in question, arranged clandestine meetings, according to Probst.

NIERENGARTEN IS SENTENCED

Will Be Taken Wednesday to Columbus for Life Term

WPAKONETA — (Special) — Avarid Nierengarten must serve the remainder of his days a prisoner in the Ohio state penitentiary, without hope of pardon or parole, for the murder of Joseph Scott Kershaw.

The Lima youth was brought into court at 9:30 a. m. Monday, before Judge Joseph Barber, of Shelby, and sentenced in accordance with the verdict of the jury.

Judge Barnes reviewed the case and told the prisoner that the jury may have exceeded its authority in recommending mercy in a finding of guilty on the murder charge. He said, too, that the jury may have gone a long way in arriving at that verdict, if the fact that murder for the purpose of robbery appeared was established by the testimony.

Prosecuting Attorney Karl Timmerman had statement to make before the court. Neither did C. A. Stueve counsel for the prisoner. Nierengarten had nothing to say as to why sentence should not be imposed upon him.

It is expected that he will be removed to the penitentiary Wednesday by Sheriff Ewing, if the papers in the case are ready by that time.

ROBBERY FOILED

Newark Bank Cashier Puts Bandit to Flight

NEWARK, O. — (United Press) — Police and a posse of citizens are searching for an unknown bandit who attempted to hold up the Park National Bank here during the rush hour today.

The bandit entered the bank, covered A. C. Krug, cashier, and demanded "quick action."

E. D. Reese, assistant cashier, standing in a teller's cage, produced a revolver and cried, "I'll do some shooting too!"

The bandit fled with Reese in pursuit. Police and pedestrians took up the chase for several blocks but the robber disappeared.

The bandit is thought to be the same one suspected of having been scared out Saturday night when dressed as a woman, he looted around the bank.

FACES COURT ON GIRLS' STORIES

TEX RICKARD
Tex Rickard, prize fight promoter, was placed on trial today in New York under indictments charging him with mistreating young girls.

COMPLAINANTS
It was on the stories told by these four girls that the Children's Society of New York City pressed charges against Rickard, which resulted in his indictment. Sarah Schoenfeld, 13, above; Anna Hess, 11, left; Alice Ruck, 15, right and Nellie Gasko, 14.

RICKARD ON TRIAL

Boxing Promoter Charged With Assault on Little Girl

NEW YORK — (Associated Press) — Trial of Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, on an indictment charging criminal assault on 15-year-old Sarah Schoenfeld, began today in a court room so crowded that hallways had to be blocked with benches to handle the spectators.

Assistant District Attorney Pecora was late in appearing because of an appointment with his doctor and the crowd grew restless. Finally, however, examination of 120 witnesses began.

The prospective jurors were asked if they knew John Ringling, connected with the Madison Square Gardens in which Rickard is interested, or at any time had been connected with any sporting projects.

Before he was called to the bar, Rickard said he was anxious to have the trial proceed quickly so that "it would soon be over with."

GIRL BEATEN, STRIPPED, LEFT IN LOT TO DIE

CLEVELAND — Dorothy Hruby, 16, beaten over the head with a gun barrel, stripped of her outer clothing and left to die in a vacant lot late last night, was found semi-conscious early today. Miss Hruby is the sixth girl waylaid on Cleveland streets since the first of the year. Her condition is serious.

OBENCHAIN JURY DISCHARGED

Fails on Verdict After Deliberation of 56 Hours

9 TO 3 FOR CONVICTION

Date for Second Trial Will Be Set Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES — (Associated Press) — In her cell in the county jail facing trial for the murder of J. Belton Kennedy, her sweetheart, Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain, in whose case a jury last night disagreed and was discharged, today was resignedly waiting for tomorrow when her second trial will be set.

The foreman reported the jury was hopelessly divided and after each of the nine men and three women who composed it had been asked separately and had confirmed the foreman's report, Judge Sidney N. Reece discharged them.

The foreman, Frank W. Crockett, a retired attorney of Pasadena, told the court the division was nine to three, and had so set from the first to the fifth and final ballot.

MAJORITY FOR CONVICTION
After the court had dismissed them, some of the jurors told newspaper men the nine, including two of the women jurors, favored conviction, while the three, including one woman, had voted for acquittal.

They said that as the "hopeless division" came on the question of guilt or innocence they never had reached the question of the degree of guilt.

They were out approximately 56 hours, of which nearly 24 were passed in actual deliberations.

Mrs. Obenchain with a pale drawn face, but otherwise displaying no sign of emotion, was in court when the jury reported. She quickly returned to her cell in the women's department of the jail, without giving out any interview, although it was reported she had been confident of a disagreement.

Judge Reece set the case for tomorrow when, according to the district attorney's office, a motion will be made for the setting of a new trial date.

REVENGE CHARGED
The revenge of a woman scorned was the motive the prosecution sought to establish in the trial of Mrs. Obenchain, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Kennedy on August 5, 1921. About two months before this time, according to testimony, Mrs. Obenchain left Chicago for San Francisco and told acquaintances she was to marry Kennedy in that city on June 28.

Kennedy failed to meet her, however, and she came to Los Angeles. There were frequent meetings between the couple during July and Mrs. Obenchain wrote some letters to Kennedy, introduced in evidence, some of which expressed ardent affection, other deep resentment. On one occasion Mrs. Obenchain took Kennedy to a fortune-teller whom she had asked to "talk favorable" to the young man, according to testimony.

Finally Mrs. Obenchain wrote to Kennedy that she was "thru with him" and on the same day telegraphed to Arthur C. Burch, an old school mate, living in Evanston, Ill., to come to Los Angeles, saying she needed him and "the friend I had last summer." Burch came to Los Angeles bringing with him a shotgun case, according to a Pullman porter's testimony.

House leaders stressed their desire that the bill be taken up under a suspension of the rules.

Mr. Finley was born in Nobel-co and was married to Miss Emma Hancock of that county in 1887.

Besides the widow, six children survive, among them Richard, a practicing physician of Cleveland. Funeral arrangements await arrival of the family.

Mr. Finley had been in poor health for almost four years. He was chairman of the Democratic executive committee from 1908 to 1918, and as such managed the gubernatorial campaigns of former Governor Cox. He was appointed state oil inspector by Governor Patton in 1906, and later was appointed to the same position by Governor Harmon.

He was engaged in business in Kenton where at one time he published a newspaper.

HOLLYWOOD TRIANGLE AFFAIR

Seena Owen, left, screen star, has filed suit in Los Angeles for divorce from George Walsh, film star and athlete. She names Estelle Taylor as co-respondent. The latter has just been selected to play the part of vampire in a new screen version of "A Fool There Was."

VOTE ON BONUS IN HOUSE DELAYED

Suspension of Rules for Action Refused by Gillett

NEXT STEP IS UNDECIDED

Harding Declines to Back Compromise Measure

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Republican house leaders failed today to obtain presidential approval of the compromise soldiers' bonus bill, but went ahead with plans to put the measure thru the house.

Speaker Gillett refused to permit the measure to be brought up today under a suspension of the rules, however, and a special rule will be necessary for its consideration. Leaders were to confer late today as to the procedure and the time that house consideration of the bonus would begin.

Representative Mondell of Wyoming, and four other house members, were closeted with the president at the White House this morning for nearly two hours.

SUSPENSION REFUSED
Speaker Gillett also had an appointment with the president, but because of the length of the conference between Mr. Harding and the house leaders, the speaker had to return to the capitol to preside over the house session without seeing the executive.

Upon reaching the capitol the speaker met with the house leaders and made known to them his decision not to recognize Chairman Fordney today for a motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill.

While at the White House Mr. Mondell and other members of the house committee went over the whole bonus question with the president who was understood to have given no expression of his views on the compromise measure with its bank loan provision in lieu of the original cash.

UP TO CONGRESS
The president was quoted as having said he preferred not to make any recommendation as to the legislative procedure as the responsibility of legislation rested with congress. He also was said to have indicated a desire to study more closely the provisions of the bill before determining in his own mind whether he could approve all of its features.

House leaders stressed their desire that the bill be taken up under a suspension of the rules.

Administration officers, who have discussed the bonus with the president were under the impression that the executive had not changed his mind with regard to the legislation.

These officers were of the opinion that the compromise measure would not be passed by the senate; that the measure either would be held up there or so changed that cash would be available to the veteran desiring it and the cost financed either by taxes or the sale of bonds.

W. L. FINLEY DEAD

Former Democratic State Chairman Dies at Columbus

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — William L. Finley, former state oil inspector and for many years chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, died at a local sanitarium today. He was 54 years of age.

Mr. Finley had been in poor health for almost four years. He was chairman of the Democratic executive committee from 1908 to 1918, and as such managed the gubernatorial campaigns of former Governor Cox. He was appointed state oil inspector by Governor Patton in 1906, and later was appointed to the same position by Governor Harmon.

He was engaged in business in Kenton where at one time he published a newspaper.

Mr. Finley was born in Nobel-co and was married to Miss Emma Hancock of that county in 1887.

Besides the widow, six children survive, among them Richard, a practicing physician of Cleveland. Funeral arrangements await arrival of the family.

$5,000,000 BOND PERMIT GRANTED ERIE RAILROAD

WASHINGTON — Plans of the Erie railroad for refunding a $15,000,000 indebtedness which falls due April 1, were approved today by the interstate commerce commission which gave the road authority to issue and sell $5,000,000 in seven per cent bonds.

The indebtedness falling due is chiefly held against the railroad by the war finance corporation and consists of approximately $12,750,000 in six per cent notes which the government took to secure advances, and approximately $2,250,000 of similar securities which have been sold to the public.

By the sale of the 7 per cent bond issue the road proposes to pay off all the notes in the hands of the public and part of the notes in the hands of the war finance corporation. The balance of approximately $10,000,000 will be renewed for one year, at the same interest rate.

IRISH ARMIES IN BATTLE LINE

Rival Forces Facing Each Other At Ulster Border

LONDON — (Associated Press) — The border line of Ulster is described as "like a battle front" by the Evening News Belfast correspondent who says rival forces of the Irish Republican army and of Ulster special constables were actually within rifle range and continually firing at each other during the week-end.

The combatants were too well concealed for serious losses to be inflicted and the exchange of fire was mainly intended to prevent the springing of surprise attacks. As an extra precaution the area between the two forces was sprayed with machine gun fire at intervals.

The rival armies, continues the correspondent, are gradually creeping closer to each other and the first collision is expected to occur on the frontier near Caledon, county Tyrone.

"The sound of the blowing of bridges on the Ulster border during the week-end could be heard miles away," adds the dispatch. "The northern forces were mainly responsible and as the result of their activities every important bridge leading from the free state has been demolished, while hundreds of roads have been trampled and closed with trees."

"The tension is already beginning to affect the inhabitants behind the battle line. The Unionists along the frontier are much perturbed over the menace of invasion and have asked that more protection be afforded them."

"Many close to the battle zone, which is no man's land, have had to evacuate their houses which immediately have been occupied by the fighting forces."

SHIP LOST AT SEA

American Steamer Abandoned Off the Mexican Coast

SAO FRANCISCO — (United Press) — The American steamer Fair Haven, enroute from Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, to San Francisco, has been abandoned at sea, according to a radiogram to the United States hydrographic office here today.

The message was from the steamer Katrina Luckenbach and reported that the crew had been taken by the Luckenbach into Manzanillo, Mexico.

The Fair Haven when last seen, was waterlogged and drifting at the mercy of the sea off the Mexican coast.

No details as to the cause of the disaster were given.

ALL YANKS TO QUIT RHINELAND

Entire American Force Ordered Home by July 1

MOVEMENT ALREADY BEGUN

Controversy Over Occupation Payment Not Involved

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Orders directing the return to the United States by July 1, of all American troops now on the Rhine, were issued today by Secretary Weeks.

The order includes the return by the end of the fiscal year of the entire force of approximately 2,000 men expected from the previous order of several weeks ago under which the homeward movement of the majority of the American Rhine contingent is now in progress.

Secretary Weeks said that the operation of two army transports now being employed in the return of the troops had been ordered continued up to July 1, by which date all of the force would have been withdrawn from the Rhine, DETAILS LACKING

The action of the war department was merely a continuation of the policy previously announced for withdrawing the American forces from the Rhine territory as early as possible, Mr. Weeks said. It was indicated that the status of army legislation in congress in no way influenced the department's decision and also that the controversy over payment by Germany for the maintenance of the Rhineland troops was not involved.

Secretary Weeks did not go into detail as to how the functions exercised by General Allen in the Rhineland commission and those of the American forces at Coblenz would be transferred to the allied commanders and those of the American forces at Coblenz would be transferred to the allied commanders. He confirmed his announcement to the statement that all of the troops would be back in the United States by July 1.

BANKS BACK RING

Finance Bootleg Organization, U. S. Official Charges

MIAMI, Fla. — (Associated Press) — A bootleg ring has been uncovered here so thoroughly organized that its contracts were backed by some Miami bankers who acted as trustees for the funds covering large sales, Colonel L. G. Nutt, of the internal revenue bureau, has reported to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

In substance, Colonel Nutt's report said, "the operators brazenly proposed 'we will contract for all the liquor you want—Scotch, Irish or champagne. We will go and fetch it.'"

The conveying of liquor from near-by foreign shores, the report added, was a minor transaction compared with the program for putting it ashore and shipping it to northern points.

ARRESTS EXPECTED

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press) — Imminent arrest of a number of individuals, some of them prominent in Florida commercial circles, was indicated in preliminary reports from Colonel L. G. Nutt, in charge of the campaign at Miami against liquor smuggling. Commissioner Haynes said today.

ATTACK SAFE IN DORSEY STORE

Heavy Sledge Hammer Used in Wrecking Combination

GET NOTHING FOR EFFORTS

New Losses Discovered at Home of H. W. Fenton

Four robberies have been reported since Saturday night, the boldest attempt having been made at the Dorsey grocery, Market and Elizabeth-sts. It was entered at 3 a. m. Sunday, but the burglars were unable to secure anything.

They concentrated their efforts on a large iron safe in the office, located toward the rear of the store. They broke off the combination knobs with a sledge hammer, but the door resisted their efforts.

WINDOW IS JIMMED
Entry was made by jimmying a rear window. The thieves then entered thru the butcher shop, located at the extreme south end of the grocery. Nothing aside from the safe was disturbed. A quantity of pennies in the cash registers were untouched.

One of the front doors of the store was found unlocked when an employee came to work Monday morning, which indicates they went out the front way.

Mrs. Belle Steyer, who resides above the grocery, reported she saw a man, evidently the picket, standing outside the grocery about 2:30 a. m. She saw him with two other men on Market-st. They are believed to have been the marauders.

Echoes of robberies Friday night at the homes of H. W. Fenton, 1419 Lowell-av., and Earl Cleverdon, 869 W. Elm-st., were heard at police headquarters Sunday.

The Fenton house was entered Friday night and at first it was thought only a man's suit of blue serge, a game stickpin, diamond pin and gold watch chain were taken, but Fenton reported Sunday that after taking an inventory of their clothing and valuables they found another suit, two rings, one a topaz and the other a sismet, a lion's head with ruby and diamond sets, an open-faced gold watch, monogrammed and a pair of cufflinks, also were taken.

No clues to this robbery have been discovered.

CLEVERDON'S MISS NOTHING
The Cleverdons, who were absent in Indianapolis when their house was entered, reported Sunday nothing had been taken. Neighbors reported Saturday they saw a window open. The house had been ransacked.

Eleven chickens were stolen from a coop at the Hooverman home, 432 N. Shawnee-st, Sunday night, police were informed of porch climbers who entered the residence of Mrs. Edna Spyker, 406 S. Baxter-st, and the home of Harry Kollars, 860 Richlie-av., Saturday night. In the absence of the occupants, it is unknown, police say. Valuables totaling $100 were taken at the Spyker home and jewelry and $10 in cash secured at the Kollars residence.

WATCH IS TAKEN
Mrs. Mary Doyle, 1117 W. High-st., reported to police today Monday that her home was entered by a robber Friday night and a valuable ladies' gold watch taken.

According to police, marks on the windows which had been jimmied in the recent robberies, indicate they were made by the same instrument, a flat piece of iron or steel. It is believed a gang is at work.

With the clean-up of the Baker-Sisson gang last Fall, robberies ceased except for sporadic thefts from time to time. The reports of groceries broken into recently has led the department to believe another crowd has been formed that strikes chiefly at groceries.

There were two reports from the grocery of A. M. Curl, Greenlaw-av., last week, and the attempted robbery at the Dorsey store Sunday morning leads police to believe the city is in the midst of another outbreak of the same kind.

SEARCH FOR GIRL

Co-ed of Chicago University Mysteriously Disappears

CHICAGO — (United Press) — Search, extended from Chicago to New York was under way today by police for Miss Edna Taylor, pretty 21-year-old girl co-ed of the University of Chicago, missing since last Thursday.

No trace of her has been found since she left a note at her apartment which read:

"I am going to see friends in Pittsburgh, or else I may go home."

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Alfred Taylor, wealthy architect and contractor of New York.

Her brother, Alfred H. Taylor, a student at Amherst, arrived here today to assume personal charge of the search.

The first theory of the police that Miss Taylor has eloped, is discounted by her friends, who say she was a girl "without a sweetheart."

She was a junior at the University specializing in philosophy and English literature and is described as a brilliant intellectual.

SENATE TO RATIFY PACT FRIDAY

Foreign Capitals Informed as to Treaty Plans

ACTION IN U. S. AWAITED

Anxiety Felt at Washington Over French Attitude

(By LAWRENCE MARTIN)
WASHINGTON — (United Press) — President Harding was given assurance today of the ratification of the four-power Pacific treaty.

Senate leaders, having carefully checked up their strength over the week-end, told the president they would have an actual two-thirds of the senate, 64 votes and probably more. Ratification of the Pacific pact means all the others that grew out of the arms conference, will go thru also, senate leaders told Harding.

Word has gone to foreign capitals also that the senate will ratify on Friday. Not for years has the senate's diplomatic galleries been so constantly occupied as during the discussion of this treaty.

SITUATION ABROAD
Other governments have admittedly been waiting for the senate to act. The United States will be the first to ratify the four-power pact. Ratification here will greatly assist its friends abroad, senate leaders hold. They are more interested in the situation in France than elsewhere, for they expect Great Britain and Japan to ratify without much discussion. Reports received privately within the last week, indicate to some senators that there is a growth in French official life that would like to be revenged on the United States for its refusal to ratify the Versailles treaty and this group may make trouble.

The senate today continued to talk about the treaty with both sides doing everything possible, under cover of the debate, to strengthen their lines. Tomorrow voting on amendments is scheduled to be resumed and on Wednesday debate will be limited, in preparation for the final vote on Friday.

WILSON SILENT ON PACT

WASHINGTON — (United States) — Former President Wilson is "not at present expressing an opinion on any public question," his secretary, John Randolph Bolling today informed the United Press.

This was in reply to an inquiry as to whether Wilson was opposed to the four-power pact, as has been reported in the senate at various times.

FIRE CHIEF, CITY, DEFENDANTS

$10,000 Damage Suit Opens in Common Pleas Court

Will Chief John Mack's alleged bite to reach a jury in January, 1924, cost the city the $10,000? That is the question a jury before Judge Fred C. Becker, in common pleas court is going to have to determine, probably late Monday. A damage and personal action instituted by James Stumbaugh, a laborer, who was hit by Mack's car while crossing a high-street at McDonald, went to trial Monday.

Mack, riding in the chief's car, was going to a fire in the west end. Stumbaugh was hit and hurled against the curb. He sustained fractured ribs and was internally injured, he alleges.

The suit for $10,000 makes both Mack and the city defendants. Should Stumbaugh obtain judgment, the city will be liable for the entire amount.

Stumbaugh testified in his own behalf during the morning session. He related the incidents leading up to the accident.

Members of the jury hearing the case are O. A. June, W. N. Ring, E. M. Unbaugh, L. Leonard, C. C. Reed, W. D. Clippner, O. G. Snyder, L. E. Kepner, F. S. Laus, William Elche, George Brooks, Albert Stump.

The defense will present testimony during the afternoon to show that bells and sirens were sounded continuously as the department proceeded out High-st toward the fire.

GERMANY BLAMED FOR CHAOS

Oberlin Professor Speaker Here on European Conditions

Europe has never before in the history of the world been in such a chaotic condition as at present, Dr. Jan Campbell Hannah, professor of church history of the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, told a large assembly at the First Congregational church here Sunday afternoon. The Y. M. C. A. cooperated with the church in this meeting.

Dr. Hannah attributed the chaotic condition following 1870 to the Napoleonic wars, the blame placed on France. Germany is blamed for the present chaotic conditions, as a result of the late war. Dr. Hannah says the English view of America's position on The League of Nations is that it is a sample of American with slave America evolved it as a good thing for Europe yet America would have nothing to do with its own creation.

There is a dearth of outstanding statesmen in the world at the present time, Dr. Hannah asserted. There are none in our own country to compare with Lincoln, none in England the equal of Gladstone and Beaconsfield and none in Germany to compare with Bismarck. Lloyd George is more of a politician than a statesman, the speaker said and holds his power by changing his viewpoint so many times.

There is no national political center in America, as Paris is to France, Dr. Hannah said. The people of that country are influenced by what is done in Paris. In this country, each state capital is looked upon as a political center. Dr. Hannah holds that it is better so.

English politics, as in a muddled condition, but England holds the key to the solution of European difficulties, he asserted. Speaking of Turkey, he reminded that all European nations have at some time or other been in league with that nation and that all have been at war with her.

Dr. Hannah believes that America should have accepted the Armenian mandate. When asked what he believes is the real hope of Europe, the speaker stated that it would come best with burying the hatchet by the various nations and by the spread of Christianity.

America is holding aloof from the Geneva conference, Dr. Hannah said, because it is looked upon as a political assembly. It is significant that Geneva, the city of the holy grail, should have been selected as a place of conference.

Dr. Hannah is pessimistic over the situation in France. A new military is arising there, he asserts. He believes that the reparations exacted from Germany should be so arranged that they will be paid quickly, as Germany did with France in 1870. When long drawn, the speaker said, reparations payments are a burden.

CARELESSNESS IS WRECK CAUSE

76% Could be Avoided, B. & O. Safety Official Says

Seventy-six per cent of all accidents on American railroads are due to automobile drivers failing to heed warning of stop, look and listen. So declared R. B. Mann, head of the B. & O. Safety First Bureau of the Toledo division, speaking before the Rotary club Monday.

Mann said Ohio leads all other states in the union in the number of grade crossing accidents, due in large part to the fact that Ohio ranks second in the number of machines owned. He recited the efforts made by railroads to avoid accidents, and the impossibility of eliminating grade crossings because of the cost. He requested all Rotarians to preach the gospel of caution every time it becomes necessary to cross tracks.

Vice President E. M. Gordon, in the absence of President George E. Bayle, presided and announced that next Monday the luncheon would be held in the Elks Home, when members were expected to bring their wives and at least one boy, their own or borrowed. Boys attending the luncheon to hear the address planned, will be excused from school. Superintendent J. E. Collins stated.

DODGE RELEASED FROM PRISON

Completes Five-Day Sentence for Auto Speeding

FACES TWO OTHER CHARGES

Will be Arraigned for Reckless Driving Tomorrow

DETROIT — (Associated Press) — John Duval Dodge, possessor of a fortune of $1,600,000, left the Detroit house of correction this morning with $3 in his pocket, having completed a five day prison sentence for automobile speeding. His release came at eight o'clock and was carried out with the greatest secrecy, at the request of the prisoner.

Dodge was taken to the rear of the house of correction, allowed to slip unobserved thru a back door and was whisked away in a prison automobile to the home of his father-in-law, M. P. O'Connor, in this city.

Given his freedom an hour earlier than the time originally set, the youthful prisoner escaped a battery of newspaper and camera men gathered in front of the institution. The camera and newspaper men waited in vain in front of the prison for Dodge to appear.

When Dodge entered the prison last Thursday he had $108 in his possession. He paid $100 of this to the city, the amount being exacted as a fine in addition to the jail sentence.

Dodge left so hurriedly this morning he forgot to take with him a sterling silver corkscrew that was among his possessions when he entered the prison. The corkscrew will be mailed to Dodge.

Altho his punishment for violating the city speed limit is ended, with exception of loss of his automobile driver's license for a year, Dodge is not yet out of the woods.

At nine o'clock tomorrow he must appear in court at Kalamazoo and face a charge of reckless driving, following a midnight automobile ride recently during which Miss Emeline Kwakernack, Western State Normal student, jumped from Dodge's car while it was traveling at a high rate of speed, and sustained serious injuries. The reckless driving charge is disposed of. Dodge is scheduled to be arraigned tomorrow morning on a charge of violating the prohibition laws. It is alleged he carried liquor on the joy ride.

FORD DEAL HITS SNAG IN HOUSE

Members Fear Issue and Resort To Delay

WASHINGTON — (Special) — Henry Ford's proposal to lease Muscle Shoals is in a political blind alley.

With elections looming congress considers the subject dynamic. Fear of alienating the farmer vote by killing the Ford project has led the house to seek delay in delay.

The forthcoming report of the military affairs committee may even be favorable to Ford. But it will be a mere gesture signifying nothing, because the Senate's present program frankly is hostile to the proposal.

The political tangle is complicated further by the fact that 16 of the senators who voted to seat Senator Newberry are among the 17 up for re-election next fall. Because they are afraid of the Newberry backlash they are afraid to show hostility to Ford by killing the Muscle Shoals plan.

Prospects are that the Alabama Power Company's "moral option" on sections of the Muscle Shoals development will be canceled upon as a means of keeping the Ford proposal in the debate stage until after election.

War probably will continue a long time between Ford and the farmers on one side and the anti-Ford faction on the other. Meanwhile a public investment of $50,000,000 in the power and nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals stands idle.

DAVIS IS CALLED COWARDLY.

Governor's Retirement Attacked by Chairman Durbin

COLUMBUS — (Associated Press) — While no new faces had appeared today in the ranks of aspirants to the Ohio gubernatorial nominations following announcement late Saturday that Governor Davis would not again be a candidate, the chief executive's withdrawal was regarded as having cleared the way for potential candidates both Republican and Democratic.

The governor's proposed retirement to private life was both praised and attacked over the week-end. Republican state leaders commended the governor's administration and expressed regret at his retirement, while from Democratic State Chairman W. W. Durbin came the statement that the chief executive had made a "cowardly retreat." His action would not affect the coming campaign, Durbin said, asserting that the issue would be the record of the Republican party and not Davis personally. The entire party, he said, was responsible for the ratification by the legislature of the reorganization bill "in violation of the constitution" and the subsequent upholding of it by the supreme court.

Other statements included those of State Senators George H. Bender, Cleveland, and J. F. Burke, Elyria, who saw in the Davis withdrawal "proof that the Davis reorganization was a failure." Bender and Burke were the only Republican senators to oppose passage of the reorganization act.

GOVERNOR DAVIS' POSITION

SELDOM, if ever before, in the history of the state of Ohio, has a Governor been placed in the position now occupied by Harry L. Davis. His statement, declining again to be a candidate, while received with apathy by Republicans and Democrats alike, arouses in the hearts of many people a feeling of resentment for the reason that it is generally felt Governor Davis was forced out.

When the President of the United States, an Ohioan, of the same political faith as Governor Davis, openly expresses his satisfaction that Davis will not run again, it is patent that Davis has been made the victim of a political conspiracy; that he is bowing to the will of the leaders of the party, no matter how grievously he may be hurt thereby.

Governor Davis is in a pitiful position. Close friends state that he was anxious to run for a second term, but he is forced to get out of the way on account of political expediency. If, under the circumstances, Governor Davis and his close friends and advisers can go on worshipping at the shrine of the party to which they have paid allegiance, the brand of fortitude they possess is certainly remarkable.

Now that the way is clear, the leaders will proceed to pick the man who is expected to "redeem" the party from the blunders of the Davis administration.

TALKING MOVIES

TALKING movies, a new invention with enormous possibilities, have just been successfully demonstrated in Chicago.

By this invention, the silent screen loses its silence. You, out in the audience, watch the picture and hear the actors' voices and all other sounds, the same as if you were actually seeing and hearing the thing occur in real life.

The process is different from the combination of phonograph and movie film tried out by E. F. Albee in Keith vaudeville some years ago.

This latest talking movie is an application of the wireless phone.

THE movie is produced in the studio, as usual. Then the films are sent out to movie theatres, where wireless phones and automatic picture machines are synchronized—that is, the outfits in each theatre start at the same time and run at the same speed, regulated from the movie studio.

The film has been made. Audiences are ready for the show. The picture starts in each theatre. Simultaneously, the film is screened at the studio.

The actors, watching the picture closely to "keep in step," speak their lines, same as on a stage. The wireless carries the words for reproduction in the movie theatres.

Other sounds also are sent out to be heard by the movie audiences—such as breaking glass, pistol shots, whistles.

AT the first try-out of this new invention, Frank Bacon, star of "Lightnin'," was the lead actor.

The inventor, Harry J. Powers, Jr., has kept his radio talking pictures secret, pending patents. Shortly, however, they will be tried out on the public.

Audiences frequently comment that some of the great actors lose part of their effectiveness on the picture screen because their greatest histrionic ability—vocal genius—cannot be brought into play. A successful radio talking movie would eliminate this handicap.

IN your day, you have seen the wireless and the movie develop from rather laughable laboratory experiments to practical devices, widely used and with tremendous possibilities.

The movies soon will have a new Siamese twin—the "speakers."

It is not straining the imagination to picture a day when moving pictures themselves will be broadcasted into homes by wireless, the same as a photograph now can be cabled across the ocean.

This is scientific accomplishment—the most important news of the Twentieth Century.

LONGTIME PASTORATE

IN number of years of service as the pastor of a Lima church, Rev. Webster C. Spayde is the oldest Protestant minister in Lima. Sunday witnessed the close of a seven-year pastorate for Rev. Spayde at Bethany Evangelical Lutheran church.

It is not the privilege of many ministers of the gospel to remain for that length of time in one position. It is the exception rather than the rule. Therefore, Rev. Spayde deserves to be congratulated by the members of his flock and by the citizens of Lima generally. He possesses qualities that make his continuance as pastor of Bethany church much to be desired by its members.

On the occasion of the celebration of the close of a seven-year pastorate, members of many other churches united with those of Bethany, to do honor to their pastor. Rev. Spayde has won the confidence and esteem not only of those of his own church organization, but of all who know him. As a counselor and adviser his opinion is often sought. He is somewhat in the role of a father to many of the younger ministers of his denomination in this territory.

Rev. Spayde has received the congratulations of many persons, with an expression of the hope that he may long continue his good work here. This newspaper desires to be numbered among those extending felicitations.

to whether Salome was an acrobat or a dancer. Albeit what is the dividing line between a dancer and an acrobat. Oscar Wilde made her a charming creature; and her mother made her a fool. But why should I lose a night's sleep. Her ancestors have certainly an artistic blend of her two accomplishments; and demand more than one male head, and much more cash than did poor, misguided Salome.

So out mused in brain, and added in thought. Friends 'phoned they would be over last night; and after making up the peanut butter sandwiches and setting forth an eighth-derce of buttermilk, they relayed a message they had miscalculated their capacity. An old saying near three years out of vogue. Down the avenue and saw a young matron who has been going about in tears, all shales in a suit with trimmings of goat's fur. She plays an excellent game of auction bridge to one of the leading literary clubs.

Waited to Mack Coll. Can't miss that man. What is he doing on my beat. Met and traded parlor tales with ex-Mayor Hon. Miles S. Standish. And really, he has a good one, just brewed. Traffic business booming at High and Main, but the police must be at gym practice. This man A. Holland Furnace seems to be buying up a great many residences over the town and placarding them as tho he were running a health board. Dropped in to see G. C. Dunston of the Shawnee Finance. He didn't suggest a thing. Spoke gaily to F. C. McCoy, the old church tenor. Failed to recognize me with my shoes signed and mustache trimmed.

So home to read Gertrude Atherton's "Slumbering Fires" and dwell long over the physician's prescription of egg-nogs, mellow Bourbon, port wine, and sherry and raw egg. Physicians of to-day would throw that guy out of the medical society. But my wife, poor wretch, drove all literature from my brain by a purchase. It is one of the clever new literature 40-shilling domestic time-clocks. You ring when you go out and you ring when you come in. And she gave me Key No. 5. There's George, and daughter and herself. I must employ an out of town detective.

VIA WIRELESS

The wireless operator of the Norwegian steamer Grontoft sent out his calls for aid couched in humorous slang until his ship sank.—News Item.

No solemn language goes for him,
This bird who tapped his key
And gaily, with a cheerful vim,
Faced death upon the sea;
Nor let his slangy wit grow dim
Till he had ceased to be.

I would not celebrate his deed
In phrases fine and high,
For should his spirit lamp the screen
He'd wink a ghostly eye
But this I'll say for all who read,
He was a nifty guy!

Some boy! He made the ether throb
With many a jape and where
While sticking to his wireless job
In ugly, smashing seas
So I sing not with lines that sob
But with jazz-lines like these.

I write the argot that he spoke
And flashed across the air,
Before it came his time to croak,
Fearless and free of care,
A nifty, peppy, jazzy bloke—
Yes, bo, that boy was there!

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multified coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well.

SPITTING AND INFLUENZA

Whatever causes are chiefly responsible for the large number of cases of influenza and grippe and their arch ally, pneumonia, it is certain that the great amount of promiscuous spitting does not help in preventing the spread of these diseases.

It may be that the slyant effects of spitting are not exceedingly great, yet, since we cannot estimate the number of cases due to this cause, it would be a wise thing for all communities to become strict about this matter.

Most towns and communities have anti-spitting ordinances, which are persistently broken thousands of times daily.

It is a common sight to see people, old and young, of both sexes, spit on the sidewalk.

It is not only an indecent habit, that rather grates on the inner sensibilities of right-minded people, but it is palpably a dangerous menace to the health of us all.

The germ of tuberculosis is present in millions in the spit of a consumptive. It is almost entirely through the spit of consumptives that the germ of this dread disease is communicated to others.

It is reasonable then to state that much "flu" and grippe could be prevented by public health officials if they would start an active campaign against spitting in public places.

Promiscuous coughing is also a public menace, especially in street cars and motor buses.

Why not dig up those dusty, anti-spitting laws and put them in force?

GOV. DAVIS DENIES HARDING EDICT

Not Told to Step Aside by President, He Says

ASKS SUPPORT OF PUBLIC

General News Items Gathered From Ohio Cities

COLUMBUS — (United Press) — The way was clear today for entries into the Republican "free-for-all" race for the nomination for governor. Governor Davis' announcement that he would not seek re-election has cleared up the political situation. It was expected that announcements would come soon from Carmi Thompson, of Cleveland and Ironton, Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith, of Zanesville, and Congressman C. L. Knight, of Akron.

State Senator Arthur H. Day, of Cleveland, has already announced himself as in the race.

Rupert C. Beetham, of Cadiz, speaker of the house, is regarded as a likely entry, along with Roscoe C. McCullough, former congressman of Canton, who was an unsuccessful candidate two years ago.

THOMPSON PLAN

The statement by Rud Hynicka, of Cincinnati, that the Republican party in Ohio should look to President Harding for leadership, was taken here as part of a plan of the Harding-Daugherty element to clear the way, if possible, for Carmi Thompson.

Thompson people say that two months ago in Washington, there was a conference at which Governor Davis told the president he would get out of the way and throw his support to Thompson in the state campaign.

Governor Davis today denied that he kept out of the fight at the request of the national administration, declaring such reports to be "the very opposite of the truth."

He said that men closest to President Harding exerted every influence up to the time his decision was announced "to induce him to seek reelection."

Governor Davis today appealed to the public for its support of his efforts during the rest of his administration, which he said, would be absolutely free from the usual influences of political considerations, inasmuch as he is not a candidate for office.

BURBANK'S BETTER GARDEN TIPS THE GARDEN

MRS. LUTHER BURBANK ILLUSTRATES HER HUSBAND'S GARDEN TIPS.

(BY LUTHER BURBANK)
(World's Greatest Scientific Agriculturist)

When you look out upon your back yard and see a pile of ashes and old tin cans and other debris lying about—don't despair! Quite the contrary! Here you have a fine start, once the tin cans have been cleaned up and dumped. The ashes are just what you want for the soil.

The average back yard can afford a space of 10 by 30 feet and the average person can easily spade and take care of such a plot.

If it is a vegetable garden you have in mind, such a space will go far toward providing vegetables for a family of three or four.

Now get a good spade, a good trowel and be sure to do a little planning on the garden's form. Straight rows between the beds are important, even tho this requires a little more effort. A two-foot width is always sufficient for these, and quite frequently a foot will suffice.

Try to make the garden a family affair. Turn it into exercise, rather than into work. And by all means get the children interested. Nothing is more healthful and helpful to the child's body and mind.

Then, start to dig!

(Tomorrow Burbank tells about "The Soil.")

WHEN IS CELLAR NOT A CELLAR?

When It's a Swimming Pool, Comes Jersey Answer

MIXED UP IN SENATE FIGHT

Wet, Dry Plot in Political Drama is Thickening

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
WASHINGTON — (United Press) — When is a cellar not a cellar? Answer: When it is a swimming pool.

That is to say, if Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey had a concrete cellar, and it later turned out to be a swimming pool, with nothing stronger in it than water, does that prove that Frelinghuysen is not entitled to the votes of New Jersey drys?

Assuredly, the cellar or swimming pool is wet. Frelinghuysen's friends concede, but so is the ocean wet without in the least annoying Mr. Volstead, and where do the democrats and wets get that cellar stuff, anyway? It never was a cellar and Frelinghuysen never had it full of booze, and he never was a wet, and the whole yarn is just a malicious canard. And that's that.

The wets — and New Jersey, report has it, is thickly populated with them — are of two political persuasions. Republican and Democratic, and in addition to their wet predilection, they have in common a desire to get Frelinghuysen out of the Senate when he runs again this year.

G. O. P. PUZZLE

The Republican wets thus far have found nobody to contest with Frelinghuysen for the G. O. P. nomination. For one thing, he stands close to the Harding administration. When the administration is popular, Frelinghuysen's fortunes boom; when it is unpopular — or relatively so — "Joe" feels the effect. But when, ask enthusiastic New Jersey Republicans of the Frelinghuysen persuasion, when, if ever, has the Harding administration been even relatively unpopular? A second buttress to Frelinghuysen's strength in his own party is the help he has been able to give some influential citizens in matters pertaining to property affected by the war.

His pet hobby, collecting rare and valuable postage stamps, has not, so far as is known, hurt him with the voters.

While the Republican wets seek in vain for a champion to overthrow Frelinghuysen, the Democratic wets have theirs in the saddle with lance all sharpened. He is Gov. Edward I. Edwards and he hopes to beat "Big Joe" on a platform calling for congressional modification of the Volstead law to permit beer and light wines. New Jersey is one of the states where this issue will be paramount, and for that reason the outcome will be watched with much interest by political observers.

The state prohibition enforcement act was knocked out by a court decision the other day, and that, Frelinghuysen's opponents assert, was a hard blow to him, and a corresponding strengthening of Gov. Edwards' senatorial chances.

CELLAR STORY

The place of the cellar-swimming pool story in the plot of the rapidly thickening Jersey political drama is that of comedy-relief. Somebody started a story that Frelinghuysen wasn't so dry as he voted, and that he had imported a New York contractor to build him a concrete cellar, wherein was to repose a stock of choice but contraband beverages. But when this somebody, aided by others, "dug into" the Frelinghuysen cellar, it proved to be a swimming pool, so 'tis said. Then, not to be balked, the tellers of the tale declared Frelinghuysen and his cellar both had been "converted."

The wet and dry issue is not the only one in Frelinghuysen's campaign. His vote to seat Senator Newberry is being used against him, especially by women campaigners. His opponents also accuse him of wiggling and wobbling on the soldier bonus issue.

FARMER'S BUYING POWER GROWS

Increase of Nine Per Cent in Ohio is Shown

WILL BE BUSINESS BOOST

Aid Generally Seen in Commodity Price Jump

COLUMBUS — Associated Press — During the last two months, there has been a considerable increase in the buying power of the Ohio farmer, according to Professor J. I. Falconer, head of the rural economics department of Ohio State university.

Figures just compiled show that the farmer's purchasing power now is 50 per cent, while two months ago, it was only 71 per cent normal, he said. This increase has been brought about largely thru the decline in the price of commodities which he buys.

While prices received for grain and hogs have made a substantial advance during the last three months, the prices received for dairy products and eggs, which comprise more than 30 per cent of the income of the Ohio farmer, have fallen off, Professor Falconer said.

Taking the state as a whole, Ohio farmers now are receiving prices which average 22 per cent above the pre-war normal, according to him, while at the same time, he asserted, the farmer is paying a price 52 per cent above the pre-war level for his supplies.

"With the farmer's buying power being restored as a result of the general increase in the price of farm commodities, business in general should improve proportionately," J. A. Coffey, professor of animal husbandry at the Ohio State university, declared today.

"The price of corn and wheat is on the upgrade, there is an increasing demand for wool, and with livestock prices in general at a premium, the farmers are becoming enthusiastic and optimistic as to the outlook for this season," Professor Coffey continued.

"Farmers buy such luxuries as automobiles, pianos and electric light plants for their homes, when they have the money, but since the war they have been denying themselves such things, and even of many things they are in absolute need of. They chose not to buy, as a means of curtailing expenses in the face of decreasing farm values. Now, with fair prices again in sight, they are on the market ready to buy and stock up with farm machinery."

The farmer's dollar, as far as its purchasing power was concerned, reached its low ebb in May, 1921, when it was worth 77 cents, according to a report of the Joint Commission of Agricultural Inquiry, on the agricultural crisis and its causes, received here today.

"Measured in terms of purchasing power, the report goes on, 'the farmer's dollar in 1920 was worth 89 cents. In May, 1921, it was worth 77 cents. During the last two months, it has been worth less than

JOHN J. GRAY.

"The best investment I ever made in my life was when I bought Taulac. I have not only recovered my health but I have also gained twenty-five pounds in weight and feel just brimful of new life and energy," said John J. Gray, 1330 Hollywood St., Philadelphia, Pa., a popular salesman at George's Clothing Store.

"When I began taking Taulac I had been in failing health for some time as a result of stomach trouble and indigestion. I missed many meals rather than to suffer the discomfort I knew was to follow if I ate anything at all. I suffered especially from shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. Frequent dizzy spells and headaches added to my discomfort, and I was so nervous I got little rest either day or night."

"Since Taulac toned up my stomach I am like a new man in every way and eat, sleep, work and feel better than in years."

Taulac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Stores and by the leading druggists in every town. —Advt.

in any preceding 12 months in 30 years.

"The prices of farm products during the war period were higher than the prices of some groups of commodities, and lower than others. In the recent decline, the prices of farm products declined more rapidly and went to a lower level than the prices of other commodities."

On the other hand, the report declares that the cost of production for the 1920 crop was greater than the costs of any preceding year in the history of the country. "The quantity of fertilizers used in the production of farm crops, as well as the total expenditures for farm fertilizer has more than doubled in the last ten years," said the report.

"In addition, the wages of employees in agriculture while relatively lower than in any other industry, has increased in later years. This is due to the necessity of meeting industrial competition and the more skilled character of the labor which now must be employed in farming operations."

UMBRELLAS

The past year has made a decided change in the colors used for the manufacture of umbrellas. Black is scarcely used by the feminine contingent. Purple, green and pink are the favorites. This is due to the fact that the same umbrella serves for both rain and sun.

CAMILLA HARRISON

NEW YORK. — Camilla Harrison is the "find" of Enrico Caruso.

Almost the last thing the artist did before his fatal illness seized him was to predict a future for Camilla and take her to Mme. Gaudenzi for her first lesson.

Caruso, with his wife and daughter, were staying at the same hotel in New York at which Camilla and her mother happened to stop. Caruso heard the girl singing. She had not yet had any training.

The great singer called the attention of Mme. Caruso to the girl's voice, saying that she had a natural middle register, which is unusual. The middle register is a sort of bridge between the high voice and the low voice and usually must be developed.

Since the death of her husband, Mme. Caruso has kept in touch with Camilla and is urging the girl on to realization of the artist's forecast.

Camilla has just refused an offer to understudy in light opera. She prefers to continue studying until she can begin in stellar roles.

DRAPERIES

Crosswise draperies have taken a definite hold on the spring mode. Many of the loveliest of new frocks are wearing their draperies at an angle.

SET COLORS

Before washing any fabric which will fade set the color by letting the material soak in strong salt water for a short time. The proportion should be a cup of salt to five quarts of water.

COIN PURSES

One finds something about in the shops amusing hand-painted cloth pocketbooks. The figures which ornament them wear English costumes of the fifteenth century.

NEW COLOR

"Princess Mary blue" already has arrived. Suits and frocks being shown for summer wear are, many of them, of a tone slightly lighter than powder blue and are called Princess Mary blue.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:
I am a miserable and very unhappy girl and I am coming to you to see if you can possibly help me. I am 16 years old and am in high school. There are quite a few girls in school named as "Susie" who are very popular with the boys. They paint and powder and wear short skirts, but they always seem to attract the boys. I have been taught that these things are wrong. Everyone calls me a prude, but I think I am right. Consequently, none of the boys ever look at me. Not that I am crazy about them, but I do think I should have a little attention once in a while. My parents are strict with me and I am not permitted to go out very much. What can I do? Do you think I should try to make myself like these other girls and do you think the boys like girls who are artificial?

IN DESPAIR

PLEASE do not despair. There are hundreds and hundreds of girls just like you, but in the end they are usually rewarded for their efforts in abiding by what they think and know to be right. The best advice I can offer is for you to remember and to continue to live up to this little maxim, "To thine own self be true."

You feel that you are in the right. Why should you try to imitate these other girls, believing they are in the wrong? It is wise for everyone to live up to his or her own convictions at all times and under all circumstances.

You state that you are called a prude. It is splendid for a girl to have high ideals and principles and to do the right thing always, but do not make the mistake of being too prudish.

There is such a thing as a girl being too precise and reserved in her manner and giving one the impression that she is "above that particular sort of thing." Try to be friendly with everyone, whom you know to be of good standing and be good, as you see it, and things will come out all right for you.

You asked if boys usually like girls, who are artificial in their makeup and in their personality better than girls who are natural. Very often, the young boys, not knowing any better, "lose their hearts" to this type of girl because they have not learned to tell the false from the true.

Since the death of her husband, Mme. Caruso has kept in touch with Camilla and is urging the girl on to realization of the artist's forecast.

Camilla has just refused an offer to understudy in light opera. She prefers to continue studying until she can begin in stellar roles.

FOR EMERGENCIES

Keep a crochet hook on your dressing table. It will be found exceedingly useful when a piece of tape or ribbon slips thru its casing.

MISS HANNUM

Other accomplishments of Miss Hannum is a proficient needlewoman. She is thoroughly feminine and keeps up with the styles.

DRAPERIES

Crosswise draperies have taken a definite hold on the spring mode. Many of the loveliest of new frocks are wearing their draperies at an angle.

SET COLORS

Before washing any fabric which will fade set the color by letting the material soak in strong salt water for a short time. The proportion should be a cup of salt to five quarts of water.

COIN PURSES

One finds something about in the shops amusing hand-painted cloth pocketbooks. The figures which ornament them wear English costumes of the fifteenth century.

NEW COLOR

"Princess Mary blue" already has arrived. Suits and frocks being shown for summer wear are, many of them, of a tone slightly lighter than powder blue and are called Princess Mary blue.

BEADS

Beaded bags are quite as popular as ever. The only difference in the new ones is that the designs are a bit more delicate.

COLORS

Sealing wax red, vivid yellow and emerald green are three colors which are much in vogue this season.

POLLY AND PAUL --AND PARIS

By ZOF BECKLEY.

NORMA LEARNS SOME NEWS

Suddenly Polly stopped dancing. With bodily weariness reaction had come.

"I can't, Paul, I simply can't go on! Somehow in all this gaiety I can't pretend. I want to go home."

"Go home! Dear demented darling!" It was not Paul who answered, but Norma's fresh voice singing out at Polly's elbow. Oh, it was good to see Norma. Polly hadn't realized how she wanted to see her.

"What a coincidence—finding you in this mob!" She squeezed her friend's arm gratefully.

"Coincidence nothing! We've been me and Bobby here—" Norma indicated Sutton, the newspaper man, "have been hunting you two needles in this human haystack for hours! If Bob wasn't such a bloodhound we'd never have done it. He gets that way trailing news. Such a time as we've had!"

From Paul's manner Norma imagined Polly had not told. She tried to put herself in Polly's place, to understand the sense of hurt pride that kept the story back. And in Paul's, to appreciate his resentment over his wife's not giving him her full, frank confidence.

Still, it was a serious business taking a hand in other people's affairs. The hand usually failed—and got burnt, too, for its pains. Best let things wait—anyhow till she could talk to Polly.

Somebody proposed coffee. "If we're going to stick it all night the rest of the crowd we'd better reinforce with the sleep chaser."

Polly responded feverishly. "Sleep!" she cried, "I haven't slept for so long I've lost the habit! But you never can tell, I might keel over any minute. Lead me to that coffee!"

"You boys walk ahead," hallowed Norma, "and break a path to the next cafe!" As soon as they were out of hearing she caught Polly's arm. "Listen, dear, have you told him yet?"

"About what?"

"Why, the night of the Grassard's party, Gossie! What else could there be?"

"Well—there is something else."

Norma looked long into Polly's face.

"No! Polly! Dawson! If you mean what I mean, you are the happiest kid on earth, bless your old heart! What does Paul say— isn't he proud?"

"He doesn't know. I haven't told pleasant in your manner. Do not have your thoughts continually filled with the boys and to your great surprise some attractive and fascinating "Romeos" will, doubtless come into your life to brighten up your future.

him a thing about it. I can't, Norma. It may seem queer to you, but you don't know. . . . Norma, the day I left you at Fontainebleau, and came home to greet him he'd gone to Violet Rand's and she told him! Insinuated the most horrible things. And he—Oh, I don't suppose he actually believed her, but—somehow I just couldn't tell him after that. We quarreled—and it's been awful ever since."

"You poor darling. . . . Listen, Podge, don't worry, drink your coffee, be gay—and leave the rest to your old Aunt Norma."

STRAWBERRIES

Use Ripe, Firm Fruit for Canning, Advises Sister Mary

Strawberries for canning should be perfectly ripe, firm fruit. Over-ripe fruit loses its shape when canned and is less likely to keep well.

Look the berries over very carefully, cutting out bruised or soft spots and sorting the fruit. Use the whole perfect berries for canning and sunshine preserves and the small cut fruit for jam or marmalade.

CANNED STRAWBERRIES

This rule is for plain berries canned for table use. The proportions are calculated to suit the woman who is not equipped to can a large quantity at one time.

This method is a little different from the usual cold pack, but is a very successful and satisfactory one.

Six quarts berries, 3 cups cane sugar, 1 cup boiling water.

Wash and hull berries. Fill colander with berries and dip in a large pan of boiling water. Remove instantly and dip in a pan of cold water.

This quick blanching helps the berries to keep their shape during processing and insures against loss due to too much acidity in the fruit.

Pack two quarts of berries in one quart jar. The berries are packed just as tightly as possible without crushing.

The jars and covers must be sterilized thoroughly before filling. Boil the sugar and water until a thick syrup is made.

Pour this heavy syrup over the fruit, filling the cans to within three-quarters of an inch. Adjust rubber and half screw on top. Put in hot water bath and boil half an hour. Count the time after the water starts boiling.

The water must cover the tops of the jars. When the water has boiled just 30 minutes remove from water and cool as quickly as possible.

Be careful not to put the cans in a draft, for cold air striking the hot jars in one spot will break them. Tighten tops and turn upside down to cool. Store in a dark cool, dry place.

When dipping the berries in the pan of boiling water do not let the fruit remain a minute in the water. Dip in and lift out and immediately into cold water.

OPEN KETTLE METHOD

Do not cook more than enough to fill one can at a time. Put one cup sugar and one-half cup water in smooth stew pan. When boiling add berries and boil eight minutes. Use two quarts of berries for each quart can.

Fill sterilized jars with berries and

The district attorney looked over at Rafe. "I suppose we gotta."

Rafe came flitting to the point. "How about getting rid of Tip O'Gorman?"

"Lemme what Sam Larder and Craft say," the district attorney offered uneasily.

"No, not them, either of 'em," Rafe declared firmly. "They're friends of Tip's."

Rafe brought his open palm down on his knee with a crack like a pistol shot. "I got it!" cried Rafe. "I got it!" We'll get three of 'em at one lick.

"We'll get Simon and that foreman of 'em on Tip O'Gorman. They'll put the kibosh on Tip, and the word will be passed for the sheriff. He will go to make the arrest and they'll plug him. Being drunk, they'll be desperate and won't care what they do."

CHAPTER XII
Spring was in the air, but winter still held sway in the heart of Billy Wingo. He had not been able to make up his difference with Hazel Walton, or rather she had not made up her difference with him.

Came a night of heavy rain and wind. Billy Wingo, a lamp on the table at his elbow, was reading a Denver newspaper. A sudden gust drove a spatter of rain across the windows. There was a soft thump followed by a sliding sound against the outside door. Some one uttered in a woman's voice a muffled wail.

Billy went at once to the door and lifted the latch. There was something lying on the doorstep and still, something that moved a little. Billy let the door fly open. The something was apparently a woman in distress. Billy bent down, endeavoring to slip his hands under her shoulders. Billy bent a little lower and—

"He's coming out of it," a voice was saying. "I saw his eyelids flicker."

Billy kept his eyes shut, altho he was now completely conscious. He believed he knew the owners of those three voices. Sam Larder, Felix Craft and Tip O'Gorman. He opened his eyes. Yes, he was right. There they were, the three of them. But it was daylight, and a day of sunshine too. And the last thing he remembered was a night of wind and rain.

"Glad to see you're coming round," said Tip O'Gorman. "How do you feel—pretty good?"

"Pretty good—considering," replied Billy. "Where am I and how did I get here?"

"You're in my house," said Sam Larder. "You were—uh—brought here."

"Who was the woman?" inquired Billy.

"That was one on me. But I'm demurely."

"I was the woman," replied Craft. "That was one on me. But I'm demurely."

still wonderin'. You fellers went to a lot of trouble to carry me clear out here. I suppose you fellers think you'll be able to get Dan Silke off by kidnappin' me."

"About Dan Silke we don't care three whoops in hell," replied Tip. "I don't really think you did."

"I don't really think you did," said Billy frankly, "but knowing how you and Tuckleton—"

"No, no, Bill," interrupted Tip hastily, "don't go fussin' about Rafe. Our business is with you. Here we are. Here's you."

"Bill, you left your office in Golden Bar last night, and you took your rifle with you and both your guns."

resumed Tip. "You went to the stable and saddled your red-and-white pinto and rode out of town."

"Several people saw you, saw you so plainly that they could swear to your identity on the witness stand."

"That's good. Go'n, Tippy, old settler. You've got to where me and my gallant steed are a-skulking in the underbrush with half the town watching us like lynxes. What did I do next?"

"This afternoon you'll hold up the Hillsville stage."

"Will I wear a mask?"

"Naturally—and your horse will be seen, your red-and-white pinto that everybody knows. It's something like the trick you worked on Driver and Silke."

"Everybody on the stage will be able to swear to your clothes and your horse and your guns. One of your guns has a brass guard. That gun especially will be remembered."

"Look here, fellow citizens, who is going to take my part in this stage hold-up?" asked Billy.

"I will," said Craft modestly. "I rode your pinto out of town last night, and I think I made a good impression. And I have more than a sneaking idea I can get away with the hold-up."

"Don't doubt it," said Billy. "Don't doubt it for a minute. You've got nerve enough, I know that, and we're about of a size. I—uh—I thought there was something familiar about that vest you're wearing. And are those my other pants you have on?"

"They are, and your coat and hat are hanging on a hook in the kitchen."

"I see I ain't gonna get a chance for my ally a-all. Who'll arrest me—my own deputies?" asked Billy.

"No, we'll do that. Here's the story: Your horse gave out and Sam caught you trying to rustle a pony out of his corral. Sam threw down on you, held you up and when we, Sam, Craft and I, understand searched you, we found on you a couple of pocketbooks and Jerry Fern's watch. Jerry's driving the stage."

"When am I going to be arrested for rustling one of Sam's horses?"

"Soon after Craft gets back from robbing the stage."

Billy rolled over on his stomach, rammed his head into the pillow and completely relaxed his body, but, altho his breathing soon became deceptively regular, he was far from being asleep. He was thinking as purposefully as ever he had in his life. He had to escape. To permit his enemies to do this thing was intolerable. There was a way out. Every strain, no matter how close and awkward it may be, has its way out.

He built many plans while he lay there. But there was a flaw in each and every one of them. Felix Craft returned about the middle of the afternoon.

As the door opened and Craft entered, Billy sat up. "Have a nice time?" he drawled.

"Went thru like clockwork," replied Craft, slumping into a chair beside the table.

"Lord Almighty, I'm hungry," Craft said carelessly. "Got any more eggs and ham, Sam?"

"If you want anything to eat, you can cook it yourself," said Sam.

When Felix Craft brought the eggs, he drew up at one side of the table and Billy at the other. The platter of eggs was between them.

Tip looked on from his seat near the fireplace. Sam lounged comfortably in his chair, a dissatisfied air upon the eggs. "Ain't there any bread, Felix? A'll butter on the bread wouldn't hurt neither."

Go Felix made another trip to the kitchen. When he returned with the bread and butter, Billy discovered that the pepper had been overlooked.

"For Gawd's sake use salt on 'em!" implored Felix.

Billy pushed right back from the table and refused to be comforted. "I want some pepper! Sam, you larry lump of slumgullion, get me some pepper, will you?"

"No, I won't. I'm too comfortable and you're too finicky."

Bill glanced across at Tip. "You going to refuse me too, Tip, old citizen?"

"No," said Tip with a weary air. "I suppose not."

He arose and betook himself to the kitchen. Returning with a large old-fashioned tin pepper pot he thumped it down upon the table in front of the captive. "There y'are. Now, stop your squalling."

"Thank you Tippy, I will. Yeah."

Billy scraped up to the table as Tip turned away. "What's the matter with this pepper pot, anyway?"

Tip turned to look. Billy picked up the pepper pot slowly and stared hard at it. Felix Craft craned his neck.

"I don't see anything the matter with it," said Craft.

"Don't you?" murmured Billy, his fingers busy with the removable top. "Look here."

Sam Larder did not move, but

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

THE RUBBER MOUNTAIN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Goodby," called the Twins, and Nick tucked the record under his arm.

"That's all the phonograph record could or would say."

"Oh, I forgot! I can't remember anything!"

No one knew the reason for the mystery for no one could see the shred of cloth sticking to it. Twelve Toes the Sorcerer, had he known about it, would have turned inside out for joy, there isn't a doubt. But as for him, he was probably so far away by this time after bounding off the rubber mountain that he didn't know there was such a place as the earth even.

You might take your mother's opera glasses, tonight, or if your daddy was a soldier, his field glass, and look right past the northeast-southwest corner of the moon, and if you see some outlandish thing spinning like a dime on a pie-plate you'll know that it is the goat known as Twelve Toes the Sorcerer, and that he hasn't come to a stop yet.

But the next morning when she rolled out of bed Nancy said she had an idea. "We're not sure that this is the right record anyway," she announced. "The one with Long-head's message might be lying around somewhere else. Silver Wing didn't know where he lost it."

But when Nick was asked he felt a prickling in his pocket. He reached in and took out the magic paper and the red-feather pen. Instantly the pen began to write these words, "Take the record with you."

"It must be the right one," said Nick, putting pen and paper away, "for the pen knows everything. We'd better be going at once."

"Goodby, then," said the little house, who had been so hospitable. "Will you please lock my door as you go out. And thank you, Nancy, for washing up my dishes. I feel all spick and span inside."

"Goodby," called the Twins, and Nick tucked the record under his arm. Then they started up the rubber mountain.

Instantly the mountain began to tremble and shake like a large bowl of jelly turned upside down.

both Tip and Craft obeyed. In fact, they obeyed with such good will that the handful of pepper that Billy instantly swept into their faces dusted up their nostrils as well as into their eyes.

In throwing the pepper Billy had employed his left hand. This left hand had not completed the motion before Billy was reaching for the platter of eggs with his right hand.

It was unfortunate for Sam Larder that he was a slow-going gentleman. The platter struck him edgewise over the eye when his six-shooter had barely cleared the holster. The six-shooter clutched to the floor. Sam and his chair went over backward and lay together in a tangle amid the fragments of broken platter and the remains of several eggs. He was unconscious.

Billy, arriving in Sam's immediate neighborhood a split second after Sam struck the floor, scooped up the fallen six-shooter and wheeled back to face his other two enemies. But they were too occupied to be in immediate menace. Felix Craft was sitting on the floor, clanking at his eyes and swearing continuously. Tip, coughing and sneezing, was not swearing. Perhaps he had not sufficient breath. At any rate, he was on his feet, arms spread wide, feeling his way along toward the door giving into the hall.

Billy cat-footed up behind Tip and snatched away his six-shooter. Tip spun round at the touch, but Billy dodged away from the clutching hands.

Bang! a revolver bullet cut a button from his vest and tucked into the wall at his elbow. Billy's sudden movement had saved his life. He leaped back another two yards to get out of the smoke and crouched, balancing his tense body on the balls of his feet.

RADIOPHONE IN CHALLENGE TO MOVIES

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
The popularity of the motion picture is challenged today for the first time since it gained favor of the public. Its new competitor is the radiophone.

The popularity of the movie has been greater than that of any other form of entertainment for a number of years. In a brief span of years it has become one of the leading industries of the world.

The popularity of film entertainment is due to its low cost, to the variety of its form and to its informative value.

The movie changed the national and domestic scheme of existence. Families no longer gather about the fireplace to read the newspapers and fiction. As soon as the dishes are done, dad and mother and the kids go to the movies.

On the screen they see drama, comedy, news. The great figures of history are visualized. The news of the day is told in more graphic manner than is possible with the written word.

Now the radiophone promises to restore the hearth as the center of the home. Herbert Hoover estimates that 250,000 radiophones have been installed in homes in the last 12 months. That means that more than a million people now derive entertainment from the invisible reaches of the air.

Information is the salt of the human soul; comfort is its next desire. The radiophone will permit dad to sit about home in his old slippers, puffing his pipe while the affairs of the world are brought to him. Mother may receive the latest market prices as she awaits the grocery man to come for her order. Daughter may have dance music by putting on an amplifier.

And the radiophone gives the small boy something to play with which is more than a mere toy.

Considering the rate of growth in the use of radio in the past year and the low prices at which receiving sets are now selling, the upward upon the popularity of the movie can be easily reckoned.

You Like Irish Tales? Here's One

SURE and here's another lovely little cinema offering, heart warming and uplifting. And while it is joyful most of the time, there's a few tears in its eye. It's as satisfying and human as it can be, with dear, delightful people doing real, honest to goodness things.

Rupert Hughes wrote "Come on Over," the picture we're telling you about. He didn't try to create a masterpiece or a story that would take the world by storm. He just wanted to tell you the story of Shane and Moyna and he does it in a manner that is truly delightful. The story opens in old Ireland where lives Shane, the husky young lover whose sun, moon and stars in his eyes. Moyna, his girl, who loves him, too. They are happy and carefree, but Shane desires to seek his fortune in the land of the free, so he leaves his Moyna behind and embarks for New York.

In three long years Moyna follows you. You think the story ends there? It does not. For Moyna has reasons aplenty to suspect her dear old Shane, and the course of their love runs anything but smoothly.

There are other people in the story, of course—nice people, lively ones. There is some very beautiful scenery and excellent photography—and a director who certainly knew his business.

Colleen Moore is cast as Moyna. Now wasn't she just the best choice imaginable for the little Irish lass? And Ralph Graves, bless his heart, is wonderful as Shane.

Think we'll raise with this little description of "Come on Over" and leave it to you to pass upon. If you don't like it, then I've guessed all wrong—again.

It's showing at the Lyric theatre today and until Thursday.

Back to the Good Old Days—With 'Wes'

"School days, school days. Dear Old Goldenrule days. Readin' and writin' and 'rithmetic. Taught to the tune of a hick'ry stick. Remember them? The happiest days of our lives, they always told us, and yet we never believed them. Here's a chance to spend a joyful hour, watching Wesley Barry as the hero in "School Days." It's almost like Wes was the magician taking you back across the years, raking up old memories and making you laugh at the things you did when you, too, were a youngster.

The first three reels are just crammed with youth and sunshine, showing the life of the average small town boy, whose love for his dog and the old swimmin' hole is paramount to all else. The usual pranks on a long-suffering teacher; the fights, the young romances, the punishments—all paraded before you like an open book. And thru them all Wes is the natural, normal kiddie.

Then comes a rich uncle who completely spoils everything and packs Wes off to a fashionable school in the east, where the scholars are little snobs and poor Wes has a terrible time until he picks up enough nerve to leave the school and goes back to his dog and the kids he loves, via the freight train route. This episode of the tale is rather vaudevilian.

One of the scenes in "School Days" that you will remember long after you have seen the picture is little Wesley's parting with his dog when he is forced to leave him behind. This is one of the finest bits of screen acting I have ever seen.

By all means, take the kiddies to see "School Days." And while you're watching them enjoy the antics of their movie idol, you'll have the time of your lives doing the same thing. I'm sure you'll like it. At the Sigma all week.

"Boomerang Bill"—With Lionel Barrymore

A STORY within a story—that's the type of picture in which Lionel Barrymore makes his current appearance at the Faurot. And it's a story that will enlist the attention and sympathy of every beholder. In fact, "Boomerang Bill" is quite the neatest photoplay Mr. Barrymore has given us for awhile. His dramatic moments are real and well-timed. Trust a Barrymore for that. Praps you'd like a bit of the story. Well, once upon a time there was a young lady who turned green with envy every time another girl passed her who looked like a page from the fashion magazines. With a deep, deep longing, she craved the prettiest which she could not have. Her ardent lover, a penniless young man, promises to obtain for her the things her feminine heart admires. He has about decided on a career of pick-pocketing, bank-robbing, etc., when he learns the story of "Boomerang Bill." This is where Lionel comes in.

"Boomerang" is a nice young brook who casts eyes upon the pretty cashier in an all-night eatery and then and there forswears his criminal inclinations. He later meets her and they love each other madly. But—the poor girl's mother is an invalid, needing country air, etc. "Boomerang" will get it. Resolved to make the job his very last, he takes a bank—and goes up the river for a stretch. In the meantime—

Now isn't that an interesting beginning for a picture? And the ending, dears, is just as exciting, though it is a bit disappointing, and there's no getting around that fact. Marguerite Marsh, a sister of the well known Mae, is sweet and gentle as Ann, the cashier; others in the cast are of minor importance, Lancel, of course, dominates the production.

Patrons of the Faurot who saw "Boomerang Bill" on Sunday, gave evidence of enjoying it immensely, and it's a safe bet that you will, too.

Faurot—"Two Little Girls in Blue"

MRS. L. ERLANGER deserves the thanks of the theatre-going public for bringing back to the stage Emma Janvier, who will be seen at the Faurot Opera House, Lima, on Tuesday evening, March twenty-first in a character role in his latest musical comedy production, "Two Little Girls in Blue."

Miss Janvier was born and brought up in New York. She made her debut with Louis Mann in an eccentric role in "All on Account of Eliza" at the Garrick theatre, New York, and jumped into popular favor at her first performance. Those seeing her were loth to believe that she was a mere slip of a girl as her character drawing had the imprint of the seasoned artist. She created scores of roles in New York, rarely ever going on the road. In "A Spring Chicken" at Daly's with Richard Carle, she scored especially and her particular creations came to be known as "Janvier roles."

Miss Janvier's who ranks second to no other delineator of eccentric character roles, on the American stage, has been absent from the glare of the footlights nearly five years. To be exact her last appearance prior to her present engagement was with a farce called "Some Baby," written by Zoe Akers, authoress of "The House of Blue Leaves" and "Daddy's Gone A Huntin'." and performed at the Italian Theatre, New York, five years ago. Being in private life the mother of a pair of fine twin boys, she decided that the education and upbringing of her sons was of more importance to her future than continued stage success. So she quietly retired to domesticity and her home in Danbury.

Connecticut. But when the twins boys aged eight—were placed in boarding school she felt the urge of the footlights again, just as Mr. Erlanger was seeking a woman of her type for "Two Little Girls in Blue," and she flitted back to the stage with a zest that is evidenced in her work.

"The Grub Stake," Nell Shipman's next, will be made in Alaska.

HIGHWAYMEN TAKE CHARGE OF CLEVELAND DRUG STORE
CLEVELAND — Two highwaymen took charge of the drug store of W. W. Larkworthy here today and for half an hour waited on trade. When they left they took $325 in cash, $25 worth of morphine and left Larkworthy bound to a chair behind the prescription case.
They entered the store as Larkworthy was putting the money in the register in readiness for the day's business. Covering him with revolvers, they ordered him to walk to the rear of the store, where they bound him to a chair. They began a search for drugs after pocketing the contents of the cash register. While thus engaged, customers came in. The robbers greeted them smilingly as they waited on them.

MARKED STIMULATION IN HOME BUILDING SHOWN
WASHINGTON—Marked stimulation in home construction is shown in contracts awarded during the last three months as reported to the division of building and housing of the department of commerce. The department announced today that in 27 states in the northeastern quarter the building contracts awarded in December totaled $101,000,000 and in January and in February $75,000,000 each.
Altho normally it was pointed out these are the months of least activity in building, their contract totals compare with a monthly average of $73,000,000 in 1921.

As a matter of fact I know that I am gamer than Gibbons. In other words, I feel that I outgamed Gibbons in our last bout.

To hear out such a statement one needs only to read the account of the fight. I conceded height and weight to Gibbons, yet thruout the bout I carried the fight to him.

Gibbons was never aggressive. He seldom led. If I had not been aggressive there wouldn't have been much of a fight.

This talk that Gibbons would outgame me is still a sore spot with me. I have never yet showed a bit of yellow, which is more than can be said of a great many of the fighters I have met.

Gibbons has been credited with having a knockout punch. I took the best that his right hand could deliver and shook it off.

CHARITY FIGHT

BOSTON—Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight and Johnny Clinton, New England title holder, will meet tonight in a ten round bout for charity. The bout is announced as an exhibition contest and the boxing commission has reconsidered an earlier decision and allowed this designation because of a contract held by Leonard in which it is stipulated that he shall not engage in a decision bout for six months. Leonard, however, said he recognized his title was at stake and that the bout would be an exhibition in name only.

NEW YORK—Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion, may accompany Jack Dempsey to England as an expert guide. He also has received an offer of $5,000 to box with Ernie Rice, the British lightweight champion.

FOUR PRELIMINARY ROUNDS

For an entry of fourteen, four rounds are required to bring out the winning nation that will meet the United States in the challenge round which will take place at the West side Tennis club, Forest Hills, on September 1, 2 and 3.

The final round will be played at Newport the week of August 14 and the semi-final matches will be scheduled for the week preceding, to be played probably on August 10, 11 and 12.

Depending upon the teams which arrive to the early matches and come to the country, it now appears likely that some of the world's most famous tennis players will be seen on American courts this summer.

WIZARDS WILL PLAY

Nicholas Mishu of Roumania, whose playing abroad was one of the sensations of the European season in 1921, expects to play, as does Manuel Alonso of Spain, who has become more prominent abroad. Gertrude L. Patterson whose game attracted much attention when he won the world's championship in 1918 will visit the United States and Zeno Shimizu of Japan also will compete there.

KNOCK COOPER OFF MOUND

PITTSBURGH—Turning the tables with a vengeance, the Boston Americans pounded the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 11 to 5 defeat Sunday in a cold weather game, advised here from Hot Springs, Ark.

Without Cooper was no match in the Sunday affair and gave way to Fred Blake in the fourth. Traynor who shifted from second to short in the game inning was credited with a home run, evening up with O'Rourke of Boston. Grimm chalked up three hits for the Pittsburghers, one a two bagger.

BOSTON—The Red Sox staged a swiftest of fifteen hits, including homers by Harris and O'Rourke, to win an 11 to 5 victory over Pittsburgh at Hot Springs, Ark., Sunday.

The victory evened the count in their season series. Manager Mitchell said he was much encouraged by the pitching of Miller and Oeschler in the game which the Braves won from the Senators Saturday.

YANKEES BANK ON PITCHING TO WIN PENNANT

Mound Staff Includes Five Sure Winners

NEW ORLEANS.—If the Yankees' pennant chances depended only on the indicated strength of their pitching staff and the bulk of the reinforcements they could throw into any possible breach in their infield defense the Ruppert-Huston forces would be justified in considering themselves already "in."

No other club in either major league has so many ranking hurlers and none is so well provided with capable extra infielders.

Where other clubs would be happy in the possession of as many as three star pitchers they have no less than five.

To guarantee their infield against collapse they have at least four competent candidates available for each of the four positions.

SAM JONES BIG ADDITION TO PITCHING STAFF

They won a pennant last year with a pitching staff which consisted during the greater part of the season of only two dependable flingers.

This year they have Sam Jones and Joe Bush former Red Sox stars to supplement the efforts of Carl Mays and Waite Hoyt, and every indication points to a more or less sensational comeback by Bob Shawkey, erstwhile ace of their turling establishment.

And in addition to these five veteran stars they have a number of exceptionally promising rookies, two or more of whom will be retained for relief or emergency duty.

The most impressive of these, on the work they have done to date, are Frank O'Doul, a southpaw from San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League; George Murray, a former college "phenom," who was "farmed" to the Rochester club of the International League last year; and Gormer Wilson, a Texas semipro who was credited with winning 45 out of 47 games last season.

HUGGINS DEVELOPING PORTSIDE FLINGERS

Murray is a robust right hander with no little "style" in the box while Wilson is a slim right hander of the Dickie Kerr-Bill Bayne type.

In O'Doul, Manager Huggins hopes he has acquired the much needed southpaw. The New York pitching staff has suffered from the lack of such a pitcher.

This will be O'Doul's second appearance in fast company. He started with the Yankees for part of two seasons and was sent to the coast for further seasoning.

Last year, O'Doul won 25 games and lost nine in the Coast League. Figuring on that performance as a basis he is of much value to Huggins this year.

In addition O'Doul can hit the ball. His average was .338 last year.

GIBBONS OUTGAMED

(By HARRY GREB)
Conqueror of Tommy Gibbons

PRIOR to my bout with Gibbons a lot of fight experts said that I didn't relish body punching.

A number of them who doped Gibbons to win by a knockout claimed that Gibbons would wear me down by stomach punching when in close and weaken me for a right-cross to the jaw that would end the bout.

Other critics said that Gibbons would outgame me. That was a big laugh with me. Regardless of what kind of a fighter I am, I know that I have courage.

As a matter of fact I know that I am gamer than Gibbons. In other words, I feel that I outgamed Gibbons in our last bout.

Included in the list were Kraft, Surcher, Borckman and F. Farnan, who helped to send the Lincoln Life Insurance five into first place Sunday night with 2,998 pins. ## FAMED JOCKEY TURNS TRAINER

BY BOB DORMAN

NEW YORK—"From stable-boy to trainer."

Sounds like the title of the latest movie thriller, but it is merely a brief statement of the fortunes of Johnny Loftus.

Between the stable-boy start and the trainer finish is filled in a record that sounds like fiction, for Loftus reached the heights of jockey fame, ranking with Tod Sloan and other knights of the saddle.

Born in Cincinnati 23 years ago Johnny really started his career at Jacksonville, Fla., in 1910.

"Just a punk," as he puts it, he was galloping horses at Moncrief Park for the stable of J. M. Goode. His chance came the day that Lady Ormican, a selling plate of the stable, was entered in a cheap race. No one gave her even an outside chance to finish in the money.

Charley Grand, the regular stable jockey, had an opportunity to ride the favorite in the race.

"Put that punk Loftus up," he suggested to Goode.

Goode agreed, and Grand with his friends went down, hook, line and sinker, on Grand's mount. The "punk" finished first by a nose on his 100 to 1 shot, with Grand second.

From then on Loftus' rise to prominence was rapid. He won every rich stake on the American turf at least once. Twice he was returned winner in the Kentucky Derby. The Preakness, the Waldron and the Hopalong.

He set four American track records which still stand.

He had a leg up on Joe Blair when that speed freak of the race course set the three and one-half furlong mark at 39.2-5 seconds.

SHIPLOAD OF MURPHY-ST. PARK

Work is started Monday on the improvements to the grandstand at Murphy-st. park, for which contracts were awarded. The present structure is being renovated and seating capacity for 500 people being added.

Manager Benjie Halloran's plan to secure funds for this work by selling season tickets in advance, met with approval of many of the 100 fans asked. Twenty-six already have done their bit, and more are expected.

BOWSER IN SHAPE

Don Bowsher, local middleweight, has been training hard for his battle with Gus Camp of Pittsburgh at Columbus, March 27, and is prepared to give Harry Greb's townsman a stiff fight. Don is hovering about his best fighting weight—160 pounds. He may leave for the capital city Friday to finish up his training.

Beckett Touted Good Match For Dempsey

(By JACK McAULIFFE)

(Retired Undefeated Lightweight Champion.)

NEW YORK.—Joe Beckett isn't the bum that Americans think he is. Just because Georges Carpentier put him away with one punch, the suggestion of a Dempsey-Beckett fight is regarded here with a razzay laugh.

On the night Beckett fought Carpentier, he had wine on the brain. He was a little nervous before he went into the ring and his manager foolishly gave him two glasses of wine. Instead of steadying him, it went to his head and made him a ready victim.

START WAS INAUSPICIOUS

Beckett is a clean liver, a good trainer, and he is an improved fighter. He was badly handled and overly matched when he was first starting.

He wants to fight Dempsey and he is not planning on a dive for the loser's end of a big purse. He really thinks he can give the champion as good a fight as any other heavyweight being mentioned as his next opponent. If Bill Brennan stayed 12 rounds with Dempsey, I'm sure Beckett could stay six rounds or more, not that I figure he is one-half as good as Brennan.

but because I know Dempsey is twice as good now as the last time he fought Brennan.

Beckett is weighing around 195 pounds now and he has as much right to be put up as the next one for Dempsey as little Harry Greb has or more right than Brennan, Miske, Fulton, Carpentier or any one who has been knocked out by the champion.

MUTT AND JEFF—ISN'T JEFF AN AGREEABLE LITTLE FELLOW?

BRINGING UP FATHER—

SHORT SHAVINGS

Raymond R. Horn, druggist, undertook to board a dog for a friend who was out of town. The dog was an enthusiastic ratter. "He pulled the fur collar off an overcoat," reports the sorely tried Mr. Horn. "Then he dragged it under the bed and killed it."

J. I. Motter, realtor, says it's hard to please one of his friends who moved recently to the suburbs. "I don't like it," said his friend. The robins wake me up in the morning with their singing."

Fred Hollopeter, builder, encountered a bottleger who bewitched the variety of good whiskey in Lima. "It's so hard to get stuff that is up to my standard," said this worthy. "That I'm nearly a week behind in my deliveries."

Jim Mackenzie thought he wanted to sell his car. He wrote an advertisement for it. "The advertisement was so persuasive," he says, "that it persuaded me, and I decided to keep the car myself."

PURE FOODS

Housewives that realize the value of pure foods—that take special pride in uniform and wholesome bakings, never fail to use

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

You have positive proof of the purity—contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Pure Food Authorities.

Contains more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. It goes farther—lasts longer. That's why it is used by more leading chefs, domestic scientists, restaurants, hotels, railroads than any other on earth.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 12 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

This will fix my cold

I ALWAYS keep Dr. King's New Discovery handy. It breaks up hard, stubborn colds and stops the paroxysms of coughing. No harmful drugs, but just good medicine. All druggists, 60c.

Dr. King's New Discovery For Colds and Coughs

Stubborn Bowels Tamed. Leaving the bowels unmoved results in health destruction. Let the gentle, stimulating Dr. King's Pills bring to you a regular, normal bowel functioning. 25 cents. All druggists.

SISTERS OF CHARITY ENDORSE FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

At the Children's Home in Newburyport, Mass., there are an average of sixty children under the loving care of the Sisters of Charity.

In a recent signed statement the Sister in charge said: "We cheerfully endorse Father John's Medicine because in our home it has become indispensable. We use it, not only for coughs and colds but also as a builder. We tell our friends that we would not be without it. We have used it with great success and find it to have no equal as a builder. (Signed) The Home for Destitute Children, Sisters of Charity, Newburyport, Mass."

In a great many institutions of a similar character throughout the country, Father John's Medicine is what the nurses in charge depend upon to keep the children well and strong. They know that it is entirely safe because it is free from alcohol and dangerous drugs. adv

Is Backache Making You Miserable?

Are you dull, tired and aching—bothered with a bad back? Do you lack ambition; suffer headaches and dizziness—feel "all worn out"? Likely your kidneys are to blame. Lameness, sharp, stabbing pains backache and annoying urinary disorders are all symptoms of weakened kidneys. Don't wait for more serious trouble. Get back your health and keep it. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. (Home folks tell their neighbor.)

HERE'S A LIMA CASE: J. N. Williams, 726 Atlantic Ave., says: "My kidneys were a source of annoyance. I had lame back and a heavy, dull ache across my back that unfitted me for work. My kidneys didn't act right and I knew they caused the trouble, so when a friend advised Doan's Kidney Pills I procured some. I was soon free from all signs of the trouble."

Only Sweet, Fresh Milk Used in GOOD LUCK

None but the richest of sweet, fresh milk is used in churning Jelke GOOD LUCK Spread for Bread.

Over 300 farms in the famous Elgin dairy district of the Fox River Valley of Illinois are under contract to supply the thousands of gallons of full-cream milk used daily in GOOD LUCK.

Travelling supervisors see that the herds on these farms are kept at the height of physical perfection through scientific breeding, selection, housing, rationing, and other arts of the modern milk producers.

The movement of milk from farm to churnery is in swift freezer cars.

In connection with the churnery a large completely-equipped milk receiving plant is operated at Huntley, Ill. Milk handling devices are up-to-date, and advanced processes are employed.

Unlike some other spreads-for-bread full cream milk is used in GOOD LUCK. This milk is pure and sweet and of the finest quality. Use—
